III. Presentations

- a. Presentation I by Student Code of Conduct and Procedures Review Committee (Zora Patterson deRham, President of the Cornell University Student Assembly; Jenn Michael, Senior Director Student Services)
  - i. The presenters began by describing the committee and its purpose in sending representatives to the meeting. The committee is advisory and focused on gathering community feedback on the Student Code of Conduct and related procedures. The speakers also clarified the scope of today's presentation (listening and note-taking rather than personnel complaints or debate). The speakers played an eleven-minute-long video explaining the code and procedures and different resolution pathways
  - ii. GPSA members provided feedback. Several members pointed to temporary suspensions as a biggest concern, with severe punitive measures for students (loss of funding, insurance, academic progress, immigration status) and members asked for greater thresholds. Members also asked for more transparent decision-making on punishments and appeals, with explanations of timeline, progress, and key steps. Members also mentioned overly long timelines, "paused" investigations, vague criteria, important decisions being made by one person, and an inconsistent review cycle (five-year gap between what is meant to be an annual code review)
  - iii. The speakers thanked the GPSA and stated that this was the first listening session with more to come. They will consolidate feedback to represent graduate and professional voices later on, and gave codeandprocedures@cornell.edu as a address for further feedback

IV. Appointments and Nominations

- a. Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Status of the Faculty (AFPSF)
  - i. N. Brennan opened the floor for nominations
  - ii. A. Cardenas and Y. Wu both self-nominated to be AFPSF representative
  - iii. Seeing no other nominations, Z. Lynch motioned to close the floor for nominations. Without objection, N. Brennan closed the floor
