organizations, break programming, etc. They also covered emergency funding issues for international students

- ii. The presenters fielded questions from members on details on emergency funding criteria and scope, as well as on OGL staffing and administration. OGL's system assigns students tickets and prioritizes cases based on students' replies to automated guidance. In response to questions on increasing AI chatbot use to increase efficiency, the presenters reported interest but caution due to legal risks associated with immigration guidance. GPSA members also asked about what kinds of student information might be shared with the federal government

V. Updates - Acknowledgements by Nicholas Brennan, GPSA President

- a. N. Brennan reflected on the semester of GPSA, sharing that the body passed six resolutions (to set an internal budget, fund Anabel's Grocery, support the Library, recommend Student Code of Conduct changes, and lower the Student Activity Fee), and hosted eleven presenters over eight meetings. He also shared goals for the semester ahead, including a formal recommendation from the Special Grants Committee, creating a new special committee to plan the upcoming Ivy+ Conference, upcoming Student Advocacy town halls, and funding guidelines revision from the Finance Commission. N. Brennan thanked the body before individually acknowledging outgoing GPSA Clerk Anthony Wang and outgoing DISC Chair Aleesha George

VI. New Business

- a. None

VII. Open Forum

- a. J. Chobirko thanked the GPSA and wished everyone safe travels

The meeting was adjourned at 6:05 p.m.

Respectfully Submitted,
Anthony Wang
Clerk of the Assembly
