Type of Action: Recommendation

Originally Presented: 02/27/2025

Current Status: Placed on the Second Reading Calendar, 02/27/2025

Whereas, In the weeks following the 2025 United States Presidential inauguration, there have been several Executive Orders aimed to negatively impact the education of undocumented, Deferred Action Childhood Arrivals (DACA), international, refugee, and other immigrant members of the Cornell community.

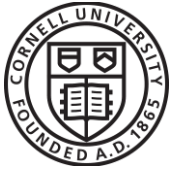

Whereas, Cornell University is located in Ithaca, New York, a designated Sanctuary City, and Tompkins County, a designated Sanctuary County.

Whereas, Cornell University's Administration sent a campus-wide email on January 28, 2025, with an additional email on February 21, 2025, stressing the University's commitment to continuing its support of all members of the Cornell community.

Whereas, The Welcome Corps on Campus (WCC), is an educational pathway initiative that enables U.S. colleges and universities to play a leading role in resettling refugee students. The WCC operates under the U.S. Department of State for refugees through the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP).

Whereas, Participating WCC institutions are matched with refugees whose cases are already approved for resettlement under the USRAP, which allows refugees to enroll in an undergraduate program and obtain legal permanent residency in the United States.

Whereas, Students in WCC are eligible for federal aid and are permitted to work in the United States.

Whereas, Refugee students who apply to the program will be simultaneously vetted for refugee admission to the U.S. and college/university admission. Students will arrive with refugee status and, therefore, be eligible for federal financial assistance/student aid programs.

Whereas, The institution will be required to submit a letter of support for the applicant. The institution (or PSG, if its members are not representing the institution) must demonstrate that the refugee's first 12 months of tuition and living expenses would be funded. This can include funding via federal financial aid or work-study, state financial aid, and other external sources.

Whereas, The WCC coalition will provide support in the form of identification and placement of refugee students, academic preparation of refugee students overseas, overseas travel and immigration processing, preparation and application training and support, fundraising efforts, implementation handbook and checklists, ongoing resources, training, and support in identifying and developing sustainable funding mechanisms.

Whereas, Cornell's Endowed and State Contract Colleges may serve as a strategic means to fund refugee students' educations. Therefore, to avoid depending primarily on institutional funds and tuition waivers, the availability of certain majors or academic programs for refugee students can be limited exclusively to state contract colleges.

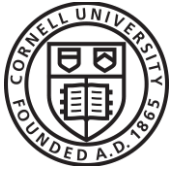

Whereas, There are two funding options for implementing WCC at Cornell.

Funding Option 1: Internal Remissions Tuition Remissions: If one Cornell University department each year agreed to waive tuition for one student's four-year education, a refugee student could be admitted to a new department on an annual rotational basis. This framework mirrors that of the Columbia University Scholarship for Displaced Students.

Funding Option 2: The Half-Quarter-Quarter Model Independent Donations: Donations from Cornell University alumni and other independent donors can create a 'migrant student fund' to cover 50% of the total scholarship, contributing $176,300 every year.

Be it therefore resolved, Cornell University should actively be intent on protecting undocumented, DACA, international, refugee, and other immigrants within the Cornell community to the fullest extent.

Be it further resolved, If the University or a University official is required by law to give information to any external enforcement official (including ICE agents, FBI agents, or other state or local police), the University must provide the person whose information they have disclosed with a notice within one hour via email and phone call that they have disclosed information regarding the individual to an agency, the nature of the request and the information disclosed.

Be it further resolved, Cornell University implements a yearly mandatory “Know Your Rights,” training for all Cornell students during first-year orientation regarding protocols for what to do if Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) or any external law enforcement official requests an affiliates’ information.

Be it further resolved, this training for students should be offered alongside the “Understanding Title IX and Related University Policies and Procedures,” “Mission Sustainability,” and “New Student Online Alcohol and Other Drug Education,” Canvas training modules.

Be It Further Resolved, Cornell University implements a yearly mandatory “Know Your Rights,” training for all members of the Cornell University Police Department, Cornell University faculty, and staff, regarding protocols for what to do if ICE or any external law enforcement official requests an affiliate’s information.

Be it further resolved, through annual mandatory training of all faculty and staff, Cornell University must instruct members of the Cornell community that if any external law enforcement official arrives at a University office or calls, they must NOT do the following:

- I. answer questions about Cornell students, staff, and faculty, request credentials or identification of agent(s),
- II. grant permission to access Cornell records or to search Cornell premises without first consulting with the Cornell University Police Department and/or the Office of the General Counsel,
- III. “accept service” of any subpoena, warrant, or request from ICE or external law enforcement officials, as only the Cornell University Police Department and the Office of the General Counsel are authorized to review such documents.

Be it further resolved, Cornell University implements “Know Your Rights” training for all dormitory building Resident Advisors (RAs), Residential Housing Directors, and all staff members working within dorm buildings, instructing them on proper conduct during engagement with external law enforcement officials in Cornell dormitory buildings.

Be it further resolved, in the new training implemented for all members of the Cornell community, they should be taught to use the following language while interacting with external law enforcement officials: “I am not authorized to answer your question,” “I am not authorized 90 to review legal documents,” “I have been instructed to call Cornell Police before you proceed,”

91 and “I will call my supervisor now.”

92 Be it further resolved, In the case where a member of the Cornell community is targeted for
93 deportation, Cornell University will commit to providing the Cornell community member free
94 legal immigration assistance.

95 Be it further resolved, Cornell University must expand access to free legal services through
96 new and existing initiatives, including but not limited to: a targeted member of the Cornell
97 community must be granted unwavering access to free legal representation through the 98 Immigration Law and Advocacy Clinic and other programs at Cornell Law School, as well as 99 First Generation & Low-Income Student Support through the University.

100 Be it further resolved, Cornell University must reaffirm its commitment to protect student
101 records and uphold the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act.

102 Be it further resolved, Cornell University must designate all religious spaces, including but not
103 limited to Anabel Taylor Hall and Sage Chapel, as spaces exempt from activity by ICE and other
104 external enforcement officials, as the Religious Freedom Reform Act prevents the government
105 from imposing substantial burdens on a person's religious practice.

106 Be it further resolved, Cornell University must ensure the continued existence of programs
107 through offices such as the First Generation & Low-Income Student Support, the Gender Equity
108 Resource Center, the Office of Spirituality and Meaning-Making, the Latinx Student
109 Empowerment Center, the Black Student Empowerment Center, Office of Academic Diversity
110 Initiatives, Asian and Pacific Islander Program Center, and others that provide resources
111 designated for students who have a vulnerable immigration status.

112 Be it further resolved: In the case that an international student breaks the Student Code of 113 Conduct in the process of demonstrating or advocating, Cornell University should ensure that 114 that student’s punishment does not invoke or possibly invoke a cancellation of their visa. This
115 means the Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards refraining from the harshest
116 punishments, such as full academic suspensions or temporary suspensions that extend past three
117 weeks, as these sanctions lead to de-enrollment, and thus the revocation of a student visa.

118 Be it further resolved: In the case of a Cornell community member’s visa being terminated for 119 demonstrating or advocating, the university should provide the student support if requested by 120 said student. This support must include:

Student Assembly

- 121 A. Finding the student qualified legal counsel.
122 B. Assisting in gathering the necessary material required to appeal the visa
123 cancellation.
124 C. Lobbying the appropriate immigration authorities to reverse their visa
125 cancellation.

126 Be it further resolved: In the case where an undocumented member of the Cornell community
127 is charged with a non-violent crime in relation to a demonstration, Cornell University will ensure 128 the administration and members of the Cornell University Police Department will not release the 129 individual's immigration status or personal information publicly or to federal forces unless 130 legally obligated.

131 Be it further resolved: In the case of faculty and staff who demonstrate or advocate, Cornell
132 University pledges to provide legal counsel when requested in the case of legal persecution and
133 must refrain from all retaliation, including termination of employment or threats of termination
134 of employment.

135 Be it further resolved, Cornell University implements WCC at Cornell to improve opportunity
136 and access for refugee students pursuing higher education at Cornell.

137 Be it finally resolved, Cornell University reaffirms its commitments to undocumented, DACA,
138 international, refugee, and other immigrant members of the Cornell community.
