Absolutely nothing should be designed past the 1/4" margin of the page.

No essential information should be designed past the 1/2" margin of the page.
